During the devastating floods in Pakistan, the Charity Doings Foundation (CDF) stepped up to provide essential aid to those affected. One critical initiative was the distribution of mosquito nets. Shielding Lives: Protecting Vulnerable Communities from Mosquito-Borne Diseases

Distribution of Mosquito Nets 2024

Every year, over 400,000 people die from mosquito-borne diseases like malaria and dengue, with millions more suffering severe illnesses. In rural communities like those in Sindh, where healthcare access is limited and mosquito infestations are rampant, the risk is even higher.

To address this life-threatening issue, Charity Doings Foundation partnered with As-Salaam Foundation to bring safety, protection, and peace of mind to the people of Sindh. Through our joint efforts, we distributed 1,200 mosquito nets to vulnerable families in these electricity-deprived areas. These nets are not just a barrier against mosquitoes; they are shields of protection, offering better sleep, improved health, and a safer future.
